

Less screen time

Too much screen time is changing our eyes, making more children short-sighted!

More play time

Playing outside for a couple of hours a day has been shown to positively affect eyesight in young children.