

Less screen time

When children focus on screens during meals, they miss out on shared experiences of eating together.

More play time

Mealtimes are a great time to share stories and come together as a family